

Music @ Washington & Lee University

{mosloadposition advert2}

The Music Department at Washington & Lee offers a major and a minor in music. Music majors receive a Bachelors of Arts, choosing a sequence focused on Musicology, Performance or Theory/Composition. Participation in the Department's instrumental and choral ensembles along with private instruction for all instruments and voice is open to all W&L students for credit.

The Department offers numerous concerts each year including those by student ensembles, our Concert Guild series, and Sonoklect, the new music/jazz series. Performances are held in the state-of-the-art Wilson Concert Hall (opened in 2006) and the Lenfest Center for the Performing Arts. Department ensembles regularly tour the United States, Europe, Asia and South America.
